A STORY FOUNDED ON FACT.

"It is inconceivable to the virtuous and praiseworthy part of the world, who have been born and bred to respectable positions, what terrible straits are the

lot of those scandalous rogues, whom fortune has left to shift for themselves!"

Such was my feeling of indignation when,

full of penitence for the sin of urgent neediness, I wended my way to the attorney who had swept together and, for the most part, picked up, the crumbs which fell from my father's table. He was a little grizzled, sardonic animal, with features which were as hard as his heart, and fitted their leather-jacket so tightly, that one would have thought it had shrunk from washing, or that they had been baked out at the elbow. They seemed to be made of iron.

His eyes, which were as hard as his

heart, seemed to be made of iron.

His nose, which was as hard as his

heart, seemed to be made of iron.

His mouth, which was as hard as his

heart, seemed to be made of iron.

His ears, which were as hard as his

heart, seemed to be made of iron.

His hands, which were as hard as his

heart, seemed to be made of iron.

His feet, which were as hard as his

heart, seemed to be made of iron.

His skin, which was as hard as his

heart, seemed to be made of iron.

His bones, which were as hard as his

heart, seemed to be made of iron.

His muscles, which were as hard as his

heart, seemed to be made of iron.

His nerves, which were as hard as his

heart, seemed to be made of iron.

His blood, which was as hard as his

heart, seemed to be made of iron.

His life, which was as hard as his

heart, seemed to be made of iron.

His soul, which was as hard as his

heart, seemed to be made of iron.

His spirit, which was as hard as his

heart, seemed to be made of iron.

His mind, which was as hard as his

heart, seemed to be made of iron.

His conscience, which was as hard as his

heart, seemed to be made of iron.

His honor, which was as hard as his

heart, seemed to be made of iron.

His reputation, which was as hard as his

heart, seemed to be made of iron.

His name, which was as hard as his

heart, seemed to be made of iron.

His life, which was as hard as his

heart, seemed to be made of iron.

His soul, which was as hard as his

"Oh, he died young; but then he was killed in a row."

"Have you any uncles alive?"

"No, they were all killed in rows too."

"Pray, sir, do you think of returning to Ireland?"

"May be I shall, some day or other."

"What security can we have that you are not killed in a row yourself?"

"Oh, never fear! I am the sweetest temper in the world, barring when I'm dining out, which is not often."

"What, sir, you can drink a little?"

"Ay, that is true. You have a red face and look appetizing. You still no-doubt, go off appetizing."

"Devil a bit. My red face was born with me; and I'll say a bet I live longer than any other man in the room."

"You are a very good fellow, and will do me a great deal of good."

"I am, sir, and I will do you a great deal of good, too."
